Major League Baseball and the Los Angeles Angels of Anaheim will hold the 2010 All-Star Game at Angel Stadium of Anaheim on July 13, 2010. The 2010 All-Star Game will be the 81st Midsummer Classic.

It will mark the third time that the Angels have hosted the All-Star Game, having also welcomed the Midsummer Classic in 1967 and 1989.

The 1967 All-Star Game was played on July 11th, with the National League winning the 15-inning, 2-1 contest, the longest Midsummer Classic (in both innings and time) in history. All three of the runs scored in the game came via solo homers. Philadelphia’s Dick Allen hit a long ball off A.L. starting pitcher Dean Chance in the second inning. Baltimore’s Brooks Robinson tied it up in the sixth inning with a blast against Fergie Jenkins. The game would remain scoreless until the 15th, when Cincinnati’s Tony Perez put the N.L. on top with a one-out homer – and ultimately earned himself All-Star Game Most Valuable Player honors – against Catfish Hunter, who was in his fifth inning of relief work. Tom Seaver pitched a scoreless bottom of the 15th to secure the win for Don Drysdale.

• The 1989 Midsummer Classic also was held on July 11th, with the host American Leaguers earning a 5-3 victory. The 1989 All-Star Game, which featured former President Ronald Reagan in the broadcast booth with Vin Scully, was the first in history to feature use of the designated hitter. In the first inning, the National League used three singles, two walks and a double-steal to jump out to a 2-0 lead against American League starter Dave Stewart. With two outs and two men in scoring position, Kansas City sensation Bo Jackson (right) made a spectacular running grab in left field, robbing Pedro Guerrero of a hit. In the bottom of the frame, Jackson led off with a towering home run to center field, estimated at 448 feet, against N.L. starter Rick Reuschel, and Boston’s Wade Boggs followed with another blast to tie the score at 2-2. The A.L. tacked on another run in the second, courtesy of Jackson’s RBI single, and four singles in the third inning plated two more runs. The two-sport star Jackson, the 1985 Heisman Trophy winner and a star tailback for the Los Angeles Raiders, finished with a 2-for-4 day at the plate and a stolen base. Before Jackson’s Most Valuable Player performance, Willie Mays had been the only player ever to homer and steal a base in an All-Star Game.

• The Angels have had three All-Star Game Most Valuable Players, and all three captured the honors in Chicago.
  • Leon Wagner (3-for-4, 2 RBI) was the MVP of the second All-Star Game of the 1962 season at Wrigley Field in Chicago.
  • Fred Lynn, the MVP of the 1983 All-Star Game at Comiskey Park in Chicago, hit perhaps the most famous home run in All-Star Game history. His third inning grand slam – the first in All-Star Game history – sent the American League on its way to a 13-3 victory, which broke the National League’s 11-year reign over the Midsummer Classic.
  • In the first All-Star Game that featured the link to home-field advantage in the World Series, MVP Garret Anderson’s 3-for-4 day at the plate, which included a homer and a double, helped propel Mike Scioscia’s A.L. squad to a dramatic, come-from-behind 7-6 win. Anderson had won the Home Run Derby the previous day.

• The Angels have had four pitchers who have been the American League’s starting hurler in the All-Star Game: Ken McBride (1963), Dean Chance (1964), Nolan Ryan (1979) and Mark Langston (1993).

President Barack Obama threw out the ceremonial first pitch at the 2009 All-Star Game in St. Louis. President Obama became the fourth sitting President ever to throw the first pitch at the Midsummer Classic. MLB responded to the President’s call for community service through “United We Serve” (www.serve.gov).
Major League Baseball’s 2009 All-Star Week donations totaled over $7 million to charitable organizations and celebrated the importance of community service as part of MLB All-Star Week. The charity and community service initiatives, themed “Going Beyond,” were the most extensive in Major League Baseball All-Star history.

$5 Million Donation to Local and National Charities
Major League Baseball and the St. Louis Cardinals donated nearly $5 million through MLB Charities and Cardinals Care, the Club’s community outreach program, from Gatorade All-Star Workout Day. The money will be distributed to a variety of local and national charities leaving a lasting community legacy throughout St. Louis and beyond.

MLB All-Star Charity Concert Presented by Pepsi
The Major League Baseball All-Star Charity Concert presented by Pepsi featured performances by Sheryl Crow with Elvis Costello along with a donation of $1 million by Major League Baseball to Stand Up To Cancer. This was possible due to support of presenting sponsor Pepsi and proud concert partners Anheuser-Busch, Sharp and Taco Bell. The concert was also an environmentally focused event that included the Major League Baseball Green Team, a group that collected recyclable bottles and cans using more than 100 recycling bins supplied by Pepsi and Aquafina.

State Farm® Home Run Derby Boys & Girls Clubs of America Donation
Major League Baseball and State Farm donated $665,000 to Boys & Girls Clubs of America, the official charity of MLB, based on the home runs hit during the State Farm® Home Run Derby. In addition to the Gold Ball home run, which generated $17,000 from State Farm and Major League Baseball combined for every Gold Ball home run hit during the Derby, State Farm also donated $5,000 for all other home runs hit throughout the Derby. The total also includes an additional $120,000 State Farm is donating to develop Teen Centers at eight St. Louis area Boys & Girls Clubs.

Anheuser-Busch Local Field Renovation
Anheuser-Busch, which is headquartered in St. Louis, donated over $180,000 toward the development of the renovation of All-Star Field at the Herbert Hoover Boys & Girls Club in St. Louis, including the playing field and irrigation, dugouts, fencing and the scoreboard.

Bank of America “Hits for Hunger” Program
Through “Hits for Hunger,” Bank of America donated $100,000 to the St. Louis Area food bank, Feeding America. The overall donation was tallied based on $5,000 for each of the 13 recorded hits during the All-Star Game and a match of all donations made on July 13 via the Feeding America website.

First All-Star Charity 5K and Fun Run Presented by Sports Authority and Nike
All race related net proceeds which totaled $90,000 were donated equally to three charities supporting cancer research and education – the Prostate Cancer Foundation, Stand Up To Cancer and Susan G. Komen for the Cure. There were 8,000 participants from 18 states and four countries who joined the first ever All-Star Charity 5K and Fun Run.

Holiday Inn Hit Tracker Donation to Boys and Girls Club and RBI Program
Through the Holiday Inn Hit Tracker at the All-Star Game, Major League Baseball and Holiday Inn donated a total of $75,000 to youth charities. The American League had the most hits at the end of the game earning a $50,000 donation that benefited Boys & Girls Clubs of America, while the National League’s hit tally earned Major League Baseball’s RBI program presented by KPMG a $25,000 donation.
MasterCard Hit It Here Program
MasterCard donated $50,000 to Stand Up To Cancer through its “Hit It Here” program. The program positioned three “Hit It Here” signs within Busch Stadium and would have donated up to $2 million if a sign was hit during the Home Run Derby or All-Star Game. Additionally, MasterCard donated $50,000 to the Teach for America program through the MLB All-Star FanFest.

PEOPLE “All-Stars Among Us”
Major League Baseball and PEOPLE magazine celebrated the All-Stars in our communities with the PEOPLE “All-Stars Among Us” program. Fans across the nation selected 30 winners, one representing each MLB Club who is serving his or her community in extraordinary ways. All 30 winners were honored by Major League Baseball, President Obama and the former U.S. Presidents in a special on-field ceremony prior to the MLB All-Star Game in St. Louis.

“United We Serve”
Major League Baseball responded to President Barack Obama’s call for community service through “United We Serve,” a program which encourages all Americans to be part of building a new foundation for America by engaging in sustained and meaningful community service. President Obama is encouraging all Americans to visit www.serve.gov to find service opportunities in their area.

Environmental Efforts
Major League Baseball and Natural Resources Defense Council (NRDC) incorporated a wide variety of environmentally-sensitive efforts that included: “MLB Green Teams” during All-Star events collecting refuse for recycling and supplementing existing recycling programs; hosting “greening” activities in the greater St. Louis community; raising public awareness to educate fans about how to become more environmentally sensitive via online materials and public service announcements; prioritizing bio-based products and recycled content materials at events throughout All-Star Week; and addressing energy usage through efficiency measures and by investing in renewable energy offsets.

Volunteer Efforts
Major League Baseball sponsors Anheuser-Busch, Bank of America, MasterCard, Pepsi, Gatorade, Sharp and KPMG provided between 300-350 volunteers for a variety of community events throughout All-Star Week. The volunteers participated in events such as working the Challengers Game, a softball game for children with disabilities; helping with the Jr. RBI Classic, a baseball tournament for inner-city youth from around the country; and assisting with All-Star Charity 5K and Fun Run.

Jr. RBI Classic Presented by KPMG
Major League Baseball held the first ever Jr. RBI Classic Presented by KPMG as part of this year’s MLB All-Star Game. Participants were teams in the 11-12 age division from each of the 16 pilot cities of the Jr. RBI program presented by KPMG. The teams traveled to St. Louis to participate in a friendly 32-game tournament, and experience All-Star festivities including the MLB All-Star FanFest, clinics by Cal Ripken Sr. Foundation, the XM All-Star Futures Game, and the Taco Bell All-Star Legends & Celebrity Softball Game. Prior to the Taco Bell All-Star Legends & Celebrity Softball Game Jr. RBI program players met the musician Nelly who spoke to them about role models and positive influences. Players also attended a KPMG sponsored special viewing of the State Farm Home Run Derby at the St. Louis Science Center where Darryl McDaniels, of the musical group Run DMC, spoke to the players. The teams were from RBI programs in Atlanta, Bradenton, Fla., Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Dallas, Detroit, Jackson, Miss., Jersey City, N.J., Los Angeles, Nashville, Tenn., New York, Philadelphia, Sacramento, Calif., Seattle and St. Louis.

Boys & Girls Clubs of America Activities
Boys & Girls Clubs of America (BGCA) activation at the 2009 All-Star Game included renovation/greening activities at a local Club. Local BGCA kids participated in the XM Futures Game flag ceremony and State Farm Home Run Derby Tee-Ball Contest and Cal Ripken Sr. Foundation Clinic, and were paired with State Farm Home Run Derby participants to win a donation toward a new Teen Center. At MLB All-Star FanFest, BGCA kids participated in the ceremonial ribbon cutting ceremony, State Farm Mascot Home Run Derby and Nike Clinic. MLB arranged for local BGCA Club members to receive over 500 complimentary tickets to MLB All-Star FanFest. The baseball that began the 80th All-Star Game was delivered by the 2008 local BGCA Youth of the Year winner.
