

Autism. It used to be that thing you weren't quite sure of. It was that thing that you learned out of watching TV's version of Parenthood, or the movies Rain Man or What's Eating Gilbert Grape? It's still not something that impacts every family, but by now, if you think about it, you know someone with a family member that has autism, or have heard about it.

Whether parents are getting the diagnosis earlier, the growing awareness of it in the medical community, the expansion of the mental disorder's classification, or the fact that it's becoming more and more common regardless of these factors, autism now touches everyone. Below illustrates the alarming expansion of those on the autism scale:

Autism

through the years

1975 1 in 5000

1985 1 in 2500

1995 1 in 500

2001 1 in 250

2004 1 in 166

2007 1 in 150

2009 1 in 110

2012 1 in 88

2013 1 in 50

DONATE TO AUTISM SPEAKS See the Autism Autism Speaks

The 2013 Autism Awareness Challenge

Written by Maury Brown
Monday, 01 April 2013 00:00

Maury Brown Sports Network

Follow The Biz of Baseball on Twitter  Follow The Biz of Basketball on Twitter  Follow The Biz of Hockey on Twitter  Follow The Biz of Soccer on Twitter  Follow The Biz of Tennis on Twitter  Follow The Biz of Golf on Twitter  Follow The Biz of Motorsports on Twitter  Follow The Biz of Baseball on Twitter 