

2007 All-Stars to Be Announced at 4pm ET

Written by Administrator
Sunday, 01 July 2007 04:51

TBS will air the Major League Baseball All-Star Game Selection Show at approx. 4pm ET, or at the end of the Marlins/Braves game if it should run longer today. The players selected will be on the roster for the 2007 All-Star Game to be played July 10th at AT&T Park in San Francisco.

Ernie Johnson will be the host, with Hall of Famers Cal Ripken, Jr. and Tony Gwynn as analysts.

"We are proud to extend the long-standing partnership with TBS and MLB and look forward to airing important MLB programming, leading off this Sunday with our coverage of the 2007 Major League Baseball All-Star Game Selection Show presented by Chevrolet and continuing on through our exclusive postseason coverage," said Jennifer Storms, senior vice president of Turner Sports Marketing and Programming. "The Selection Show gives us a great opportunity to introduce our new talent, Cal Ripken and Tony Gwynn, to viewers as well as kick off our marketing and integrated partnerships with Major League Baseball and MLB.com, getting fans excited for the postseason on TBS."