

It's Official: Selig Announces He Will Attend Bonds Games

Written by Maury Brown
Tuesday, 24 July 2007 08:56

The going back and forth on whether Selig will be watch Barry Bonds is over...

It's official... Commissioner Selig will attend all of Barry Bonds' games leading up to his historic record breaking home run that would make him the all-time home run record holder.

Selig issued the following statement today regarding Barry Bonds' pursuit of the home run record:

"Throughout this season, I have watched Barry Bonds' pursuit of the home run record. Now that he is on the verge of tying the record, the time has come to announce that I will make every attempt to attend the record-setting moment.

"Out of respect for the tradition of this game, the magnitude of the record, and the fact that all citizens in this country are innocent until proven guilty, I will attend Barry Bonds' next games to observe his potential tying and breaking of the home run record, subject to my commitments to the Hall of Fame this weekend. I will make an additional statement when the record is tied."

It's Official: Selig Announces He Will Attend Bonds Games

Written by Maury Brown
Tuesday, 24 July 2007 08:56
