

Typo Gives Three "L"s to the Logo for the College World Series

Written by Maury Brown
Sunday, 16 June 2013 18:51

"I'll take an extra consonant, Pat."... How about three "L"s in the word "College"

There are typos, and then there's this.

At the College World Series in Omaha, the logo for the event picks up one of the most glaring typos ever, an extra "L" to the word "College". It's one thing to have someone paint it incorrectly. It's another for all the people that surely must have been at the ballpark in Omaha prior the event starting miss it as it was on top of one of the dugouts.

This isn't the first (or last) time typos will be seen in sports. In 2009 Majestic Athletic accidentally sent Ryan Zimmerman and Adam Dunn jerseys that read "NATINALS" instead of "NATIONALS" and of course there was a great Snickers commercial where the end zone has Kansas City Chefs. But, this one smacks of ironic. After all, if you can't get an education in "college", where else can you?

Typo Gives Three "L"s to the Logo for the College World Series

Written by Maury Brown
Sunday, 16 June 2013 18:51

For those thinking this might be someone getting tricky with Photoshop, think again. It was captured by multiple people, and this one is from an Associated Press photographer in the pressbox.

As this clever person on Twitter said , maybe there's a solution for it all... "The losing team takes the extra L with them."

Maury Brown is the Founder and President of the Business of Sports Network , which includes The Biz of Baseball, The Biz of Football, The Biz of Basketball and The Biz of Hockey. He writes for Baseball Prospectus and is a contributor to Forbes

.
He
is available as a freelance writer

.
Brown's full bio is here.
He looks forward to your comments via email and can be contacted here

Follow Maury Brown on Twitter

Follow The Biz of Baseball on Twitter 